

Abstract

The present disclosure relates to XIAP inhibitor compounds of the formula I wherein the substituents are as described in the specification. The inventive compounds are useful as therapeutic agents for the treatment of proliferative disorders, including cancer.